Hyde County Commissioners Receive Cooperative Extension Partnership Award

The Hyde County Board of Commissioners was recently honored with the North Carolina Cooperative Extension Service County Partnership Award. The award was presented at the North Carolina Association of County Commissioners (NCACC) annual conference in Greenville on August 22, 2015.

Only a few other counties across the state received the award, which signifies an outstanding level of partnership between government leaders and Cooperative Extension through commitment of resources, inclusiveness in county government, advocacy, and involvement. Hyde County Manager Bill Rich, Commissioner Earl Pugh Jr., and Extension Director Natalie Wayne were present to accept the award.
